

Capital Letter Tracing

Help your students avoid letter reversals, discriminate between similarly-shaped letters, and master difficult-to-form letters with various kinesthetic letter activities such as this.

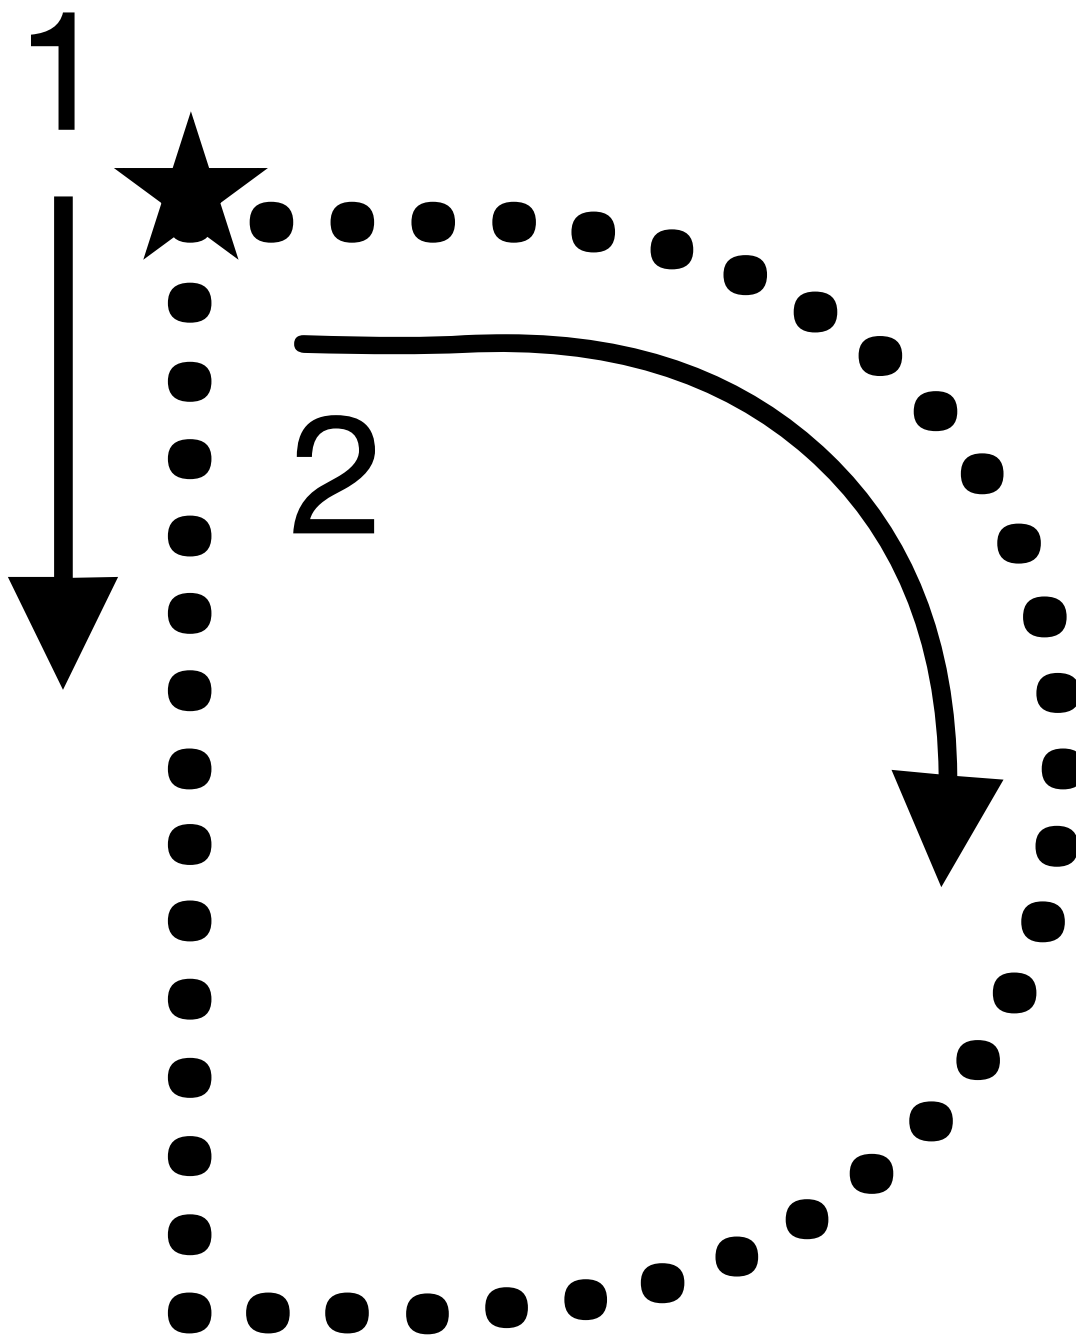

Have students trace letters of the alphabet at a Literacy Center. Using their large muscles of their whole arm helps build muscle memory for how each letter is formed. Make it fun:

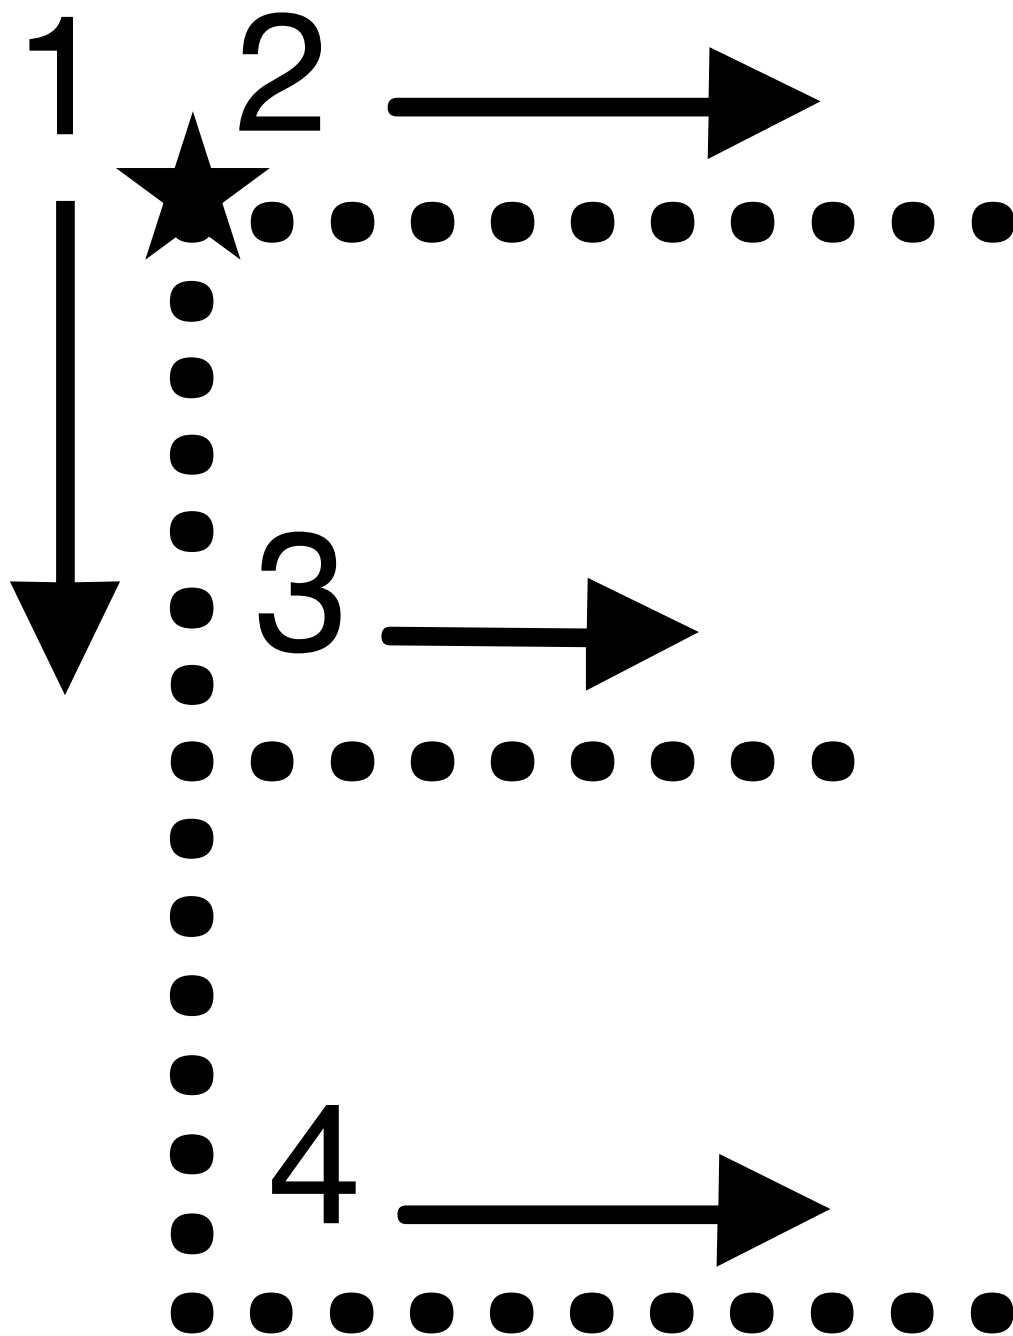

- Vary the type of writing utensils (colored pencils, golf pencils, markers, little stubby crayons, pastels, etc.)
- Vary writing surface (on the table, on the floor, on a vertical surface such as wall or window, on an easel, taped to the underside of a table, etc.)
